SIGN CONTRACT FOR NEW WATER

FIND ESTIMATE LOW ON COST OF NEW SYSTEM

At a special meeting of the village council held at the village hall Wednesday evening the bids opened on the water extension system construction, and signed a contract for filtered water supply from the city of Hammond, Ind.

Open Bids

Complications arose when it was found after the opening of the bids that they all exceeded the engineer's estimate on the work by at least 10 per cent. There were four bids submitted ranging from $39,739.40 bid by the George D. Hardin company of Chicago to $50,742 by the R. H. Peterson company of Chicago. Other bids were: the George G. Anderson & Co., of Harvey bidding $40,860 and the Sides Construction company at $41,929.74.

Because of the wide range in the bids on the reservoir and the fact that all bids exceeded the estimate the board tabled the matter until Thursday night, instructing the engineer, George Consoer, to get in touch with Mr. Baurer of the WPA and ask for an extension of time which would allow for a re-advertisement for bids.

Sign Water Contract

After disposing of the water bids the trustees turned their attention to the matter of signing the contract for water supply from the city of Hammond. The contract binds the village to pay to Hammond a minimum charge of $110,000 over the period of twenty years covered by the agreement, and also to install a new 12 inch water main in 173rd street in the city of Hammond from Calumet avenue to connect with the Lansing main on the Illinois state line. The contract also provided for the installation of a water meter at state line and designated the hours when the village may pump water from Hammond, into the Lansing reservoir.

Lansing is to make payment to the city of Hammond monthly for the water consumed, the minimum cost to Lansing being $5,500 per year.

Before adjourning a motion was passed to advertise for bids on material for the laying of the Indiana strip of water main.

WOMEN'S WPA WORK UNDERWAY HERE

Eleven local women have been given employment by the Works Progress Administration of Illinois this week. Work slips were sent out to those who had been on direct dole, to report at the village hall for work Monday morning.

At present the work supplied for the women of Lansing has been sewing, the making of women's and children's garments and comforters. Scraps and odd bits of material are to be utilized in the making of cloth toys for children.

The local project is under the direction of Mrs. Crosby of Chicago.

YOUNG PEOPLE ELECT OFFICERS

Election of officers was held at the business meeting of the Young Peoples Society of St. John's church Wednesday evening with the following results: Reinhardt Hecht, re-elected as president; Lorenz Koartge, vice president; Madeline Schultz, secretary; Adele Mueller, treasurer; Arthur Dickelman, Rachel Streufert and Carl Hecht, executive board.

Plans were made by the club for its annual Christmas party which is to be held Dec. 26th.

ALUMNI TO HEAR REV. ESSENBURG

Rev. R. Essenburg and family of Chicago are to be presented in a miscellaneous program at the Highland Reformed church Wednesday evening December 18 at 7:30 by the alumni of Highland Christian school.

Rev. Essenburg's address will be on the subject of Christian education, and his family will contribute to the program with musical selections both instrumental and vocal. The public is invited to attend.

HOLD YOUR JOB WARNS WPA OF ILL.

In a bulletin distributed this week by the Works Progress Administration of Illinois the workers who have been transferred from the dole to this project work are urged to consider carefully before giving up their WPA employment for anything less than assured permanent positions. The bulletin is quoted herewith:

"For several years it has been hard to find a job.

"You now have a job that some people would have you quit.

"The government gave you this job for the benefit of yourself and family; to make you independent of relief.

"The work you have been assigned to may not be all you would like or entirely in line with your experience and capacity.

"It is, however, giving you the chance to become active and fit as a worker once more and thus increase your chances of obtaining a better job in private employment.

"You do not lose pay for idle days due to bad weather or other causes, but only when you fail to report for work. With the bad winter weather ahead, your 'Security Wage' is surer and probably higher than broken time at an hourly wage.

"A thirty-hour week is established on all WPA work throughout Illinois. You are free to earn money in your spare time. This does not affect your WPA job at all.

"Safe working conditions are provided through constant safety inspections, removing all hazards as far as possible.

"If accidents happen, however, every worker is protected under United States compensation laws and is entitled to immediate medical attention as well as compensation payments. The families of workers are also protected by the same laws.

"Relief funds are no longer available for families of able-bodied workers who refuse WPA employment.

"Remember, the government wants to help you. It pays you a steady wage, unless you fail to report for work. It is against the law for anyone to pay you for time you refuse to work. Don't expect it.

"Think twice before you quit your steady WPA job, unless you have found a regular job in business or industry."

GUNMAN ROBS VIERK'S STORE

Left alone in his variety store for a few moments Monday evening, Fred Vierk, Sr. in his quiet way, started to wait upon a lone customer, a young man dressed in overalls and jacket, who sought a pair of work shoes.

He took the customer to the rear of the store and turned to the shelves to find the desired shoes and when he turned around again found himself facing the business end of a gun and the information that he was to deliver the cash or have his head bashed in.

In consideration of the gun and a displayed billy club Fred deemed it consistent to hand over the cash and as the thief left the store he carried with him a small portable radio valued at approximately $13. Cash taken amounted to $50.

The burglary occurred about 5:30 p. m. when Fred Vierk, Jr., had left the store on an outside errand and Mrs. Vierk had gone upstairs to prepare the evening meal.

So inconspicuously was the thief dressed that no one noticed him on the street, and as a consequence it is not known if he made his getaway by auto or if he had any accomplices waiting for him outside the store.

George Dockweiler recalled that one evening last week a man answering the description of the thug had sought to have a check cashed in his store. Mildred Sass was on duty and the man was so persistent that Mildred called George from the office in the rear. George explained that he did not have enough funds in his till to cash the check at the time. It was believed that the man stole a magazine from the rack before leaving the confectionery. Of course there is nothing definite to connect the two individuals other than the similarity of dress.

Police have made an extensive check of pictures in the rogue's gallery in an effort to have Mr. Vierk identify the man but to date nothing has been discovered that would lead to the establishment of the identity of the thief.

Hammond officials are of the opinion that it might be the same person who has pulled a number of small holdups in their city.

LANSING MOTORS NEW FIRM HERE

Another upward step in local business was made this week with the announcement of an independent Ford Motor agency here. The new concern is to be housed in the Winterhoff building where the present sub-agency is and is to be known as "Lansing Motors, Inc." Pete Slager remains the apparent head of the company but it is understood that the incorporation papers include the name of William H. Winterhoff.

It will be recalled the Mr. Winterhoff conducted a very successful Ford agency here some years ago and his old customers will probably begin considering the purchase of a new car when the new firm gets its activities under way.

The new company is to carry a line of Ford parts, fixtures for this department were being installed in the large show room to-day and Mr. Slager informs us that several new cars will be on display soon.

The Mistake

The rich uncle wrote to his nephew: "I am sending you the $10 you requested but must draw your attention to an error in your letter: 'ten' is written with one nought, not two." —Tit-Bits.

CHOIR PRESENTS HANDEL'S MESSIAH

Members of the choir of the First Presbyterian church of Hammond are to present Handel's Messiah in the church edifice at Highland and Hohman streets Sunday evening December 15 and Friday evening December 20. The program opens at 7:30 and is under the direction of John McNeill.

An invitation has been extended to music lovers of Lansing to attend either of these performances by Mr. Harry Sherrow, who assures us that the choir's rendition of Handel's greatest oratorio is an exceptionally good one. There is no admission charge.

TO SEE WORLD ON CRACKERS

With wander lust in their feet, three Hessville youths, Ralph Burner, Edward La Bounty and Walter Jordan, set out last Friday to see the world on a box of crackers. At least they declared their intentions as having been to see the world, and their sole possession was a box of crackers when apprehended by police officer Van Lanningham.

The boys dropped in at the Ford airport to look over the planes and perhaps flop for the night, but were shooed on their way by Mr. Bowne. Not daunted by the rebuff the lads crossed the road and applied for a bit to eat off Farmer Eenigenburg, who complied but refused a night's lodging.

Leaving the farmer's house the boys took a sneak into the barn planning to cuddle in the hay for the night, but fate overtook them and reported them to the police.

The Lansing officer brought them to town, found out who they were and called the Hammond cops who administered a good scolding and delivered the boys to their respective homes in Hessville.

And so ended a great adventure and life returned to its prosaic humdrum.

WATER COMMITTEE TAKES DELINQUENT USERS TO TASK MONDAY

Letters were mailed out this week by the water committee of the village council to all delinquent water users, asking that they appear at a meeting of that committee Monday evening to show cause for their delinquency or reason why their water service should not be discontinued.

TO COMPLETE T. F. BUILDING BY FEB. 3

High school officials were this week assured that the new Thornton Fractional building would be complete and ready for occupancy by the first Monday in February, the opening of the second semester of school.

While this blasts the hopes of the students and faculty of having the use of their building a month before the completion schedule, it brings a definite sense of the approach of relief from the handicaps that have attended the school for the past three years.

According to Mr. Lockhart the inside wood trim has been completed including the paneling in the library, and twelve ton of locker material delivered Monday is now being assembled.

One of the furnaces has been temporarily connected providing heat, this will speed the drying process and condition the building for the installation of furniture and floors. Material for the floors is ready but they will not be laid until the building is dryer than at present. It is believed that the work of placing furniture will be begun in about two weeks.

John Wojcik, 19 year old East Chicago lad, employed on the Keiser farm near here was riding home on his bicycle last Friday evening when a hit and run motorist struck his wheel knocking him off to the side of the road, and drove on leaving the boy unconscious. It was raining hard at the time.

Chris Neunhouse passing a minute or so later picked up the lad and took him to the local police station where first aid was given him and he recovered, apparently not badly hurt.

The accident occurred at Ridge Road and Park avenue about 6 p. m. After it was found that the boy was not badly hurt, Police officer Van Lanningham took him to his home at 4939 Barring avenue E. Chicago. The bicycle upon which he had been riding was ruined.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Mr. and Mrs. Wm Benson were guests at a birthday celebration last Saturday evening given at the Cecil M. Crane home in Whiting in honor of Mrs. Crane's mother, Mrs. Albert Fischer, and Mrs. Wm. Benson. There were relatives from Chicago and Hammond.

FISH DINNER

Last Friday evening the Otto Quick family of 181st street entertained Mr. and Mrs. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. J. Prince, Mrs. Beasley of Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. E. Boyer of Calumet City. The occasion was a birthday celebration given in honor of Mr. Prince. The diversion was pinoche and a fish dinner.

We're Still Getting Mad On as the Savages Do

When Tom Sawyer and the new boy first met and took one another's measure they worked themselves up to the point of combat by passing in suits and dares. In the Arabian desert, when the tribes feel the urge for battle, they prepare for it by dispatching impudent verse back and forth. When one side feels that the impertinence can only be atoned for in blood the shouts give way to blows.

All very childish, of course. But is it so much different from the civilized methods? Young Italians threaten the British embassy inish places of business. The Brit-home and break the windows of British hurry troops to Egypt. In the inspired press of Italy is as contemptuous of all things British as are the Bedouin versifiers of their tribal enemies. And Britain moves up warships from Gibraltar to Malta, in the very shadow of the Italian toe, as though to pinch it. The principle is the same all the way through, and even the practice does not increase greatly in dignity.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained.

STAR DUST

MOVIE AND RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE

SOME of the movie fans and autograph seekers possess almost uncanny talent when it comes to reaching movie players. If you go to call on a motion picture star at a hotel you're questioned by one person after another; even if the star is an old friend, you'll have a hard time finding out which sure you're to go to, and in gaining admittance. But when ZaSu Pitts was in New York, one autograph seeker, who looked like a thug just out of jail, got to her rooms without any trouble. I think one of the things she liked best about her New York stay was the fact that the policemen near the hotel signed their names on a list and sent it to her, requesting autographed photographs.

ZaSu Pitts

Jean Parker certainly started something when she announced that the one love of her life was Francis Lucas, a bank clerk living in Los Angeles, who wouldn't marry her because he earns only $65 a month. He came out with an announcement that there'd been a boy and girl romance between them long ago, but that it had been over for some time. Then she declared that she'd never made the statement attributed to her, and that anyway, he wasn't poor. So it must have been two other people.

Estelle Taylor—remember her?—is singing at one of the New York hotels. And Dorothy Mackaill—surely you remember her?—declares that the movies won't have her any more, so she's just having a good time. She goes everywhere—opening nights at theaters, night clubs, cocktail parties—and wears the most gorgeous jewels. And, believe it or not, that girl has 46 tailored suits, made by the best tailor in London. You see, she likes to wear tailored suits.

The boys and girls around the Paramount studio who work in Marlene Dietrich's pictures are going to miss her when she leaves those parts. For Marlene serves tea when she's working on a picture, and tea usually includes a cake that she's baked herself. That's not just a publicity story, either—she really loves to cook. And here's another little culinary note, just in case your sweet tooth has begun to respond: A pastry chef has done a three-foot statue of Grace Moore—in sugar, of course.

Dietrich

The fat boy of "Our Gang" had to grow up, naturally, and Hal Roach was a bit worried about replacing him. He found what he wanted in Paul Dominick, the mascot of the Chicago Cubs.

James Melton, who not so long ago was just one of the four Revelers of radio fame, is now officially launched on his screen career. He's one of the stars of the new "Start Over Broadway," so one of those huge movie parties was given for him the other night.

Alois Havrilla received the dictation medal for radio announcers this morning, as you know—and on the morning of the day when the awards were to be broadcast he was so nervous that he couldn't even say "Alois Havrilla" clearly. But once he got before the "mike" the nervousness was gone; the mike acts like magic on radio announcers.

Morton Downey's on the high seas, bound for England, where he'll do some singing. Barbara Bennett Downey will join him in January, when the new baby is old enough to be left at home with the nurses.

It's practically impossible to get a ticket to one of Major Bowes' broadcasts, they're so popular. Recently an owner of a radio chain in the Middle West telegraphed a request for two tickets for a broadcast three weeks ahead—and learned that he might get them, perhaps, in about a year!

Ann Harding, who has never been lovelier than in "Peter Ibbotson," is all set to do "The Witness Chair" for her next picture. By the way, both she and Gary Cooper are excellent in RKO's revival of the old love story.

ODDS AND ENDS . . . Betty Furness, of the radio, was chosen Miss National Fur Week . . . Anita Louise will play Fredrie March's mother in "Anthony Adverse"—in the sequences in which he's a child, when his role will be played by somebody else, of course . . . Paramount has listened to Spain's official objections and will withdraw the Dietrich "The Devil Is a Woman"—which wasn't one of Marlene's best, anyway . . . They just can't fix up "Spinster's Dinner" to suit Carole Lombard, though some of Hollywood's best writers have done their best with it . . . It's reported that Mary Brian, in London, has admitted that she's engaged to Buddy Rogers . . . After all these years!

Child Will Read Story That He Thinks Is Good

"Who shall define interest for another person, compounded as it is of the raw material of which personality is made?" queries a writer in the Parents' Magazine, declaring that there is apt to be one of two reasons why a child does not like to read. Either he has not mastered the technique of reading to an extent where no voluntary effort must be exerted or else he has not had access in sufficient numbers to books which correspond to his idea of a good story.

"Your child will read if he but discovers the books particularly right for his interests and tastes," declares the writer whose experiences with children and books has convinced her that there does not live the youngster who will not listen to a good story, and since reading is only a method of listening to a good story, will not read if the book is about something in which he is either actually or potentially interested; is written in words and style suitable to his reading ability; has the degree of advancement suitable to both his emotional and intellectual age levels. Those two developments, by the way, are at entirely different rates of speed. As the writer adroitly puts it: "Children do the strangest judging and somersaulting as regards these ages, going into a hand-spring a poised adolescent, coming up at the end, an emotional eight-year-old."

MOVEMENT ON TO GET FINGERPRINTS OF ALL AMERICANS

The movement to fingerprint every American is gathering force, Vera Connolly reports in December Good Housekeeping.

This author interviewed bankers, insurance men and lawyers as well as state and federal authorities, and found fingerprinting generally used today in banks and commercial business firms to protect signatures. The Bowers Savings bank, in New York City, for instance, records the impression of the fingertips of every depositor.

"Some savings banks are going even further," she writes. "They have under contemplation requiring fingerprints on all withdrawal slips. They require a fingerprint on a slip before admitting a person to the safe deposit vaults. This eliminates not only the man bent on robbery, but the racketeer or crook who wishes to use his box as a hideaway for cash bribes or stolen jewelry.

"Some day, undoubtedly, every one of us, in drawing a check of large denomination, on a commercial bank, will as automatically fingerprint it as now we sign it. This is a prophecy made by many thoughtful business men. Fingerprinting would be too much trouble? If used on small checks, yes. But would you regard the simple gesture of pressing your finger against an inkless pad and then on top of your signature as too exhausting an ordeal for the absolute protection it would afford a large check?"

That fingerprinting is going to be required in the future on all accident and life insurance policies is plain, she says. It may be used also to safeguard the forging of wills and making of false claims to estates, insurance or relationship. A will authenticated by a fingerprint of the person making the will and also the fingerprints of his beneficiaries cannot be forged if these fingerprints have been placed on file in Washington.

Thousands of people today are registering their fingerprints at Washington. Those wishing to build up the Civil Identification File in Washington should write to the Department of Justice at Washington for a "personal identification" card, fill it out with the help of some local official and return it to Washington. The government will do the rest.

George Ade, the Hoosier humorist, tells how to be young at seventy. "Live only in the present," he said, "that's the secret."

PARITY

President Roosevelt's theme in his Monday morning speech at the Stockyards arena was the old one of parity between industry and agriculture and unquestionably the steps of his administration when made in sincerity toward this parity are steps in the right direction. While it seems that some of these steps have been stumbling stones we still have the Supreme court to guard against to aggressive action in any direction and statistics covering the entire history of the United States proves that when agriculture gets into difficulty industry is bound to follow. This fact city dwellers are beginning to realize as stated by Mr. Roosevelt.

Beginning with the depression that followed the war of 1812, the city war and the great world war we find the primary depression was the concern of the farmers and with their difficulties grew to serious proportions the industries and employment in the cities suffered, throwing the country into what has been termed secondary depressions.

Industrial workers will realize that this is true when they learn that approximately three fourths of the buying power of the country lays in the hands of the farmer and if this buying power is stifled it is a death blow to industrial employment.

When the farmers have two dollars to their present one with no corresponding increase in cost of manufactured goods, manufacturers will reap a larger profit and more people will find legitimate employment. We think it is a case of every body opening his eyes and facing the truth that no one particular group can monopolize the riches of the country and still have riches.

We have long been convinced that the deliberate destruction of something that some one needs purely for the idea of increasing money profit is fundamentally and morally wrong and we doubt the value of trying to equalize industrial and agricultural problems along those lines.

On the other hand we must acknowledge that the present year is seeing a decided increase in employment and business turnover, and this increase in unquestionable traceable to the larger income of the farmer for the past year. This increased buying power of the farmer has brought an increase in the cost of food stuff to the city dweller and here we are returning to the original problem.

The city dweller's income must remain adequate to cover his living costs and at the same time the agriculturists must have an increased buying power.

The solution of the problem probably lies in the system of handling and not in the supply and demand, there will always be a demand for living supplies if a medium of exchange is at hand with which to effect the transition from producer to consumer.

The nation is beginning to realize the horror of automobile deaths that reached a total of 35,000 last year. Not so well realized, but perhaps even more horrible, is the situation of those who were involved in automobile crashes were not killed—but would be better off if they had been.

LAST CHANCE to try GAS HEAT AT OUR EXPENSE

FREE TRIAL OFFER ENDS DECEMBER 21, 1935

Thousands of satisfied users prove value. Gas Heat no longer on trial. To give everyone an opportunity to install it at our expense we are making this announcement. Act quickly.

TWO heating seasons ago, intrigued by the thought of constant, comfortable heat without the dirt and discomfort of old-fashioned heating methods, thousands took advantage of an offer to try gas heat without investing one cent for equipment. Today these thousands of satisfied users have more than proved gas heat's worth. They have shown beyond all doubt that gas is the ideal fuel for heating the home. Our trial offer has served its purpose — to acquaint these users with gas. Therefore, the free trial offer will be discontinued on December 21, 1935.

If you haven't yet done so, we want you, without investing one cent for equipment, to learn as these thousands of others have done, what a marvelous thing gas heat is. But you'll have to act NOW. Here's what we'll do. We'll install gas heat in your present furnace or boiler entirely at our expense. You can try it for a month, two months or a year. While you are trying it you will have to pay only a small rental — only $3 a month for the burner during the heating months in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. Then, if at any time within the year, you would like to return to your former fuel we'll replace your former heating equipment in good order at our expense. But if you decide to keep gas heat, as these thousands of happy users did, the rental you have paid is applied on the purchase price of the equipment.

Act right away. Take advantage of this free trial offer before it's too late. You have only until December 21, 1935, before the offer is withdrawn. Simply call your nearest gas company office for complete details and for free estimate of what it will cost to heat your home the modern way—with gas.

DO THIS NOW

To try gas heat without investing one cent for equipment, call your nearest Public Service Company office today for complete details. This offer is good only until December 21, 1935.

THE EVILS OF ANGER
Matthew 5:21-26

21. Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time, Thou shalt not kill; and whosoever shall kill shall be in danger of the judgment: 22. But I say unto you, That whosoever is angry with his brother without cause shall be in danger of the judgment: and whosoever shall say to his brother, Raca, shall be in danger of the council: but whosoever shall say, Thou fool, shall be in danger of hell fire. 23. Therefore if thou bring thy gift to the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath aught against thee; 24. Leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way; first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift. 25. Agree with thine adversary quickly, while thou art in the way with him; lest at any time the adversary deliver thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and thou be cast into prison. 26. Verily I say unto thee, Thou shalt by no means come out thence, till thou hast paid the uttermost farthing.

"No," answered Miss Cayenne, "I found it interfered with my more serious duties. You can't spill ink and pour tea simultaneously."

NOT AN ACCIDENT

An Arizona cowboy applied at a navy recruiting station for enlistment, says the Air Station News.
"Ever been sick?" asked the recruiting officer.
"Nope!" answered the cowpuncher.
"Ever had any accidents?" queried the officer.
"Not a one," returned the would be sailor.
"Then what caused that scar on your hand?" demanded the officer.
"Rattlesnake bit me," laconically answered the cowboy.
"And you don't call that an accident?"
"Nope! The son-of-a-gun did it a-purpose."

Hurry Up

"I think marriages are really made in heaven, don't you?"
"Well, if all men took as long to propose as you, most of them would have to be."

TOUGH STUFF

Doctor (to druggist)—Say, you made a terrible mistake in putting up that prescription for old Mrs. Waters. It's lucky she's alive. I know I wrote it correctly. What have you to say for yourself?
Druggist (consulting prescription)—Why, doc, I must have mixed your signature in with the other ingredients.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

SO WHAT?

"Did you throw any old shoes at the bride and groom?"
"No. To do that I'd have been obliged to take them off my feet."

ONE-TO-TEN

"Now you got to keep away from this guy," the second whispered into the cauliflowered ear of his principal. "Jab him an' get away or he'll use his right. You got to keep that left hand out there an' don't let him get set to his right. He's a clunch to try to get you to slug him, but don't do it, or he'll get his right over sure."
"I get you," the fighter nodded. "I'll do just like you say, but suppose he does get his right over anyway? What'll I do?"
"Nothin'," the second instructed. "Just relax an' me an' the referee'll carry you to your corner."—Turf Digest.

He's a Pet, Not a Prospective Dinner

HASENPEFFER AND SUCH DISHES THAT QUICKEN APPETITE

It is not always that good cooks are rewarded even by the appreciation of the partakers of their creations.

Recently, however, a man cook reaped a worthwhile reward through the gift of a pleased patron of a sweepstake ticket which made him the winner of a large sum of money. The dish which brought him fortune was hasenpeffer, which in plain English is rabbit stew. The editorial page of one of the newspapers stated: "If, des Koch's, you fall means encouragement of good cooks, well and good, for there can never be too much of that."

No doubt the butchers are feeling a demand for rabbit and the recipe for hasenpeffer will be welcome. It does take several days for its completion, but takes very little actual time and labor in its preparation.

Rabbit is not used as much in this country as it is abroad, but any one who once dares to try it will be likely to use it again, as the meat is tender, the flavor is excellent and the price is low. If you use any one of the following recipes, you will surely be rewarded by the appreciation of your family.

Prepare the rabbit and cut in pieces. Cover with vinegar and water, equal parts; add one sliced onion, salt, pepper, cloves and bay leaves. Allow this to soak two days. Drain the meat and brown in hot butter, turning it often and let simmer about a half-hour or until tender. Before serving, stir one cupful thick, sour cream into the sauce.

Wipe the rabbit with a damp cloth and rub well with salt, pepper and flour. Place in a pan with a little water, and bake it in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.), basting occasionally with a mixture made with one-half cupful water and two table-spoonfuls of butter. When the meat is tender, it should be set under the flame of a broiling oven for a few minutes to brown. The rabbit should be served with its own gravy.

Hawaii Discovery Made Possible by Franklin

To Benjamin Franklin is due "safe conduct", that enabled the discovery of Hawaii, today one of the most powerful units of America's national defense in the west.

In the Archives of Hawaii, on the grounds of the former royal palace in Honolulu, reposes a photostatic copy of a letter written from France in 1770 by Franklin, who was then minister plenipotentiary from the United States to the Court of France.

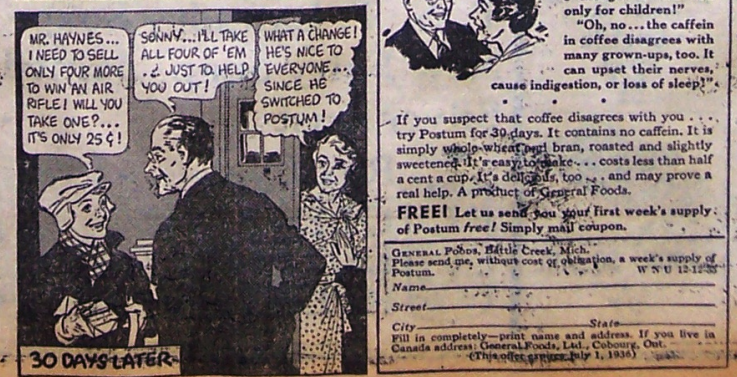

The document is addressed to "all captains and commanders of armed ships acting by commission from the congress of the United States of America now in war with Great Britain," and explains that as Captain Cook's expedition had been fitted out before America and Great Britain were at war, the great navigator and explorer should be given a safe conduct and not considered as an enemy.

Not Easy Going for the Italians

This difficult mountain slope in the region of Makale, Ethiopia, furnished plenty of work for the Italian soldiers after the automobile broke down. They were forced to put their shoulders to the wheel and push. Italian roadmakers are doing wonders in making these roads more modern and passable.

30 DAYS LATER

Christmas Seal Commemorates Famous American Era

The design of this year's Christmas Seal is a reminder of some of the most thrilling, dramatic and critical years in American history. The costume of the little girl mailing the letter is typical of the period of 1860-1870, during which the nation was torn by the strife of the Civil War, watched the westward migration of those seeking fortune, and thrilled to the feats of Pony Express Riders. The little miss who decorates the seal knew nothing about Christmas Seals because they did not appear in this country until 1907. But she was keenly aware of what was then called "consumption." No cure was known for it, its cause was a mystery, and those who had it resigned themselves to an inevitable end. This year marks the 29th annual appearance of the Christmas Seals. They will be placed on sale throughout the country on Thanksgiving Day by the 2,000 affiliated tuberculosis associations to finance their program of tuberculosis prevention and education. Each seal carries the cheerful message that today the cause of the disease and a method of curing it are known. They also carry the message, however, that tuberculosis is still the greatest cause of death between the ages of 15 and 45, that no home will be safe from it until all homes are safe, and that the assistance of every man, woman and child is needed to wipe it out of the United States.

Home

IT IS safe to say that there are few people to whom the thought of home is not dear. It stands for companionship, affection, shelter, a place where one can throw off the cares of the world and pursue one's own bent unhindered. It provides opportunity for mutual consideration, unselfishness, and reciprocal respect for the feelings and opinions of others perhaps afforded in no other way.

A home is indeed a sacred trust. There is probably nothing in our human experience whose influence is more formative. The right home atmosphere can do a great deal to offset inimical outside influences. Its training can help to plant integrity and uprightness in the youthful heart. Indeed, there are not many who can shake off in after life the effects of a godly childhood home.

Moreover, the atmosphere of a beautiful home is felt far beyond its own immediate precincts. People are naturally drawn to a household where happiness and harmony reign. Having entered it, they can go their way with new inspiration, mentally refreshed and encouraged, and thus better equipped to deal with their own individual problems. Such a home may truly become as "the shadow of a great rock in a weary land."

Dear as home associations are, however, to those who can constantly share them, they are perhaps still more dear to those who are compelled to pass much or most of their time away from such companionships. Today business conditions apparently demand that a vast number of individuals shall spend many months of the year away from home. Not alone is this the case, but the occupation of many necessitates constant travel, a continual moving from place to place which forbids any settled sojourn for protracted periods of time. Such a mode of living may tend to become somewhat unsettling, and may even engender a false sense of freedom from certain responsibilities.

No matter what a person's earthly location may be, he who has grasped the fact of his spiritual at-onement with God knows that in reality he is always at home, dwelling in "the secret place of the most High," constantly enfolded by the Father's love and care. Furthermore, he realizes that this same love and care also surrounds those who are dear to him, even though many leagues may lie between them, for there can be no actual separation when thought is at one with the understanding of spiritual reality.

Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, has expressed this thought most beautifully in one of her much loved hymns, where in speaking of the ever-presence of infinite Love she writes (Poems, p. 4):

"His habitation high is here, and nigh,
His arm encircles me, and mine, and all."

It is impossible to estimate the number of people to whom these lines have brought surcease from anxious thought, replacing any troubled sense with reassurance and comfort, when time and space have seemed to separate them from those dear to them. The same arm of tender, omnipotent care enfolding all! Surely such confidence, with its promise of no division, no severance, its assurance of but the one household of God held in His tender care, is worth striving for and attaining!

The effect of realizing that man as the spiritual idea or child of God is always at home in divine consciousness, cannot be overestimated. It supplies a new standard for ethics and morals. It provides a plumb line for righteous thinking and living by which each suggestion or situation can be appraised. It is an impregnable defense against temptation. Moreover, this realization of true manhood engenders genuine self-respect, supplies poise and balance, and imparts a consciousness of dominion over material conditions which can be gained in no other way. The assurance that "His habitation high is here, and nigh," and that every moment we can mentally abide in this secret place of Love's dwelling and there know the true sense of home, heals all feeling of loneliness or isolation. —The Christian Science Monitor.

Written by students of Thornton Fractional Twp. High School

Thornton Fractional was pleased to learn that Bruce Jacques, an alumnus now freshman at Wabash college at Crawfordsville, Indiana, is the director of a ten-piece dance orchestra known as the "Wabash Collegians." Bruce is also a feature writer for the "The Bachelor," a weekly student paper as well as a writer for the News Bureau, which furnishes Wabash college notes to city news papers.

At the last Thornton Fractional Girl's Club meeting, ways of raising money for the mothers and daughters party were discussed very thoroughly. Some of the suggestions were: a roller skating party, selling "homecoming" pencils after the students enter the new building, and selling candy at basketball games.

A social hour was scheduled for December 16 at the Woodrow Wilson school. Bus transportation is to be provided for Lansing students wishing to attend.

Joesphine Dempkowski and Miss Buffington gave a report and talk on the attendance at the baby clinics, after which Genieve Jablonski reported on the Thanksgiving baskets and the sale of Christmas seals.

At the T. F. Boys' Club meeting the main point of discussion was the report on the Thanksgiving baskets.

The program for next semester was discussed and Mr. Colby brought up the possibility of the Boys' Club's securing ping pong tables for the new school.

Tom Nondorf, president, stressed the point of pushing the Christmas Seal drive harder in order to get results.

After the close of the meeting the board went to Memorial Park and indulged in a strenuous game of volleyball.

ADOLESCENT ACCIDENT RATE

High school instruction in driving is a major factor in cutting the accident rate, present and future, according to Frank E. Jack, co-director of safety of the Chicago Motor Club.

Fatalities among adolescents 15 to 19 years old, he said, rose 130 per cent between the beginning of 1932 and thend of 1933, while the death rate for youngsters ten to fourteen years old increased only three per cent and for children aged five to nine dropped 25 per cent.

"The record of the younger children has been credited to safety instruction and the work of the schoolboy patrols," Mr. Jack explained, elements which are not generally present in high schools. Further, the adolescent is often transferring to some degree from the pedestrian to the driving stage. He may learn how to manipulate automobile controls, but often he has no more knowledge of traffic rules and road courtesy than what he has picked up by observation. And if he has grown up in a family that believes such phrases as "right of way" are meaningless, he will be a potential cause of serious accidents."

If thertrend continues, 77 out of every 100 youths now 10 years old will meet with accidents during their lifetime, he added, citing statistics compiled by Paul H. Goodell for the Illuminating Engineering society. Sixty-five are scheduled to meet minor injuries, and 12 to be killed or seriously injured.

"Students growing out of the high school into the college age have an even greater chance of meeting injury or death," Mr. Jack remarked. "The death rate for this group over the 1922-1933 period rose 157 per cent. Adequate instruction given when drivers first sit behind the steering wheel would reduce that figure, too, and the casualty lists of the future would be shorter, despite the steadily growing numbers of cars on the roads."

Who Are You? The Romance of Your Name

By RUBY HASKINS ELLIS

A Kennedy?

THE origin of the name Kennedy is found in the Celtic word "Ceanathighe," meaning the head of a sept or clan. The first Kennedys to assume the name as a surname were undoubtedly of Carrick, in Scotland. Prior to the year 1256, Nell, earl of Carrick, granted a charter to Roland of

Kennedy

Carrick, who is proved to be the ancestor of the Kennedys. The family afterward bore the name of Kennedy and, according to Scottish custom, the sons of Kennedy were called McKennedy or McKenane, spelled variously.

The story of how one McKenane with his sons and great following of kinsmen overthrew the Danes in Carrick and obtained the stronghold from King Alexander is a thrilling one. It was this stronghold which became their fair castle where the "Chief of the Lowland Kennedys took their stle for long space and were called Lairds of Donour," because of the Don of the hill above the house.

Gilbert Kennedy was the forebear of two lines of Kennedys in America.

Kennedys began migration with Rev. Thomas, who located in Tyrone, Ireland, in 1642. His son, John, also a Presbyterian minister, of County Donegal, Ireland, was the father of Andrew, who was born in 1747. He came to America and located in Pennsylvania previous to the Revolution. It is recorded that he was a man of property which he used to advance the cause of the American colonies during the struggle for independence. His large estate in Bucks county, Pennsylvania, was long in possession of his descendants.

There were early Kennedy emigrants to Virginia and Maryland, a great many of them were relatives of the Pennsylvania family.

A Pendleton?

THIS name, so distinguished in America, originated in England and is derived from the two Gaelic words pendle and dun, meaning summit and hill. It is easy to imagine that the old town in Lancashire of this name, only three miles from Manchester, which graced the crest of a hill handed the name down to the Pendleton family, which lived there.

Over the door of one of the Inns in this town swings the coat of arms of the Pendleton family, exactly the same as brought to this country by the emigrant, Phillip Pendleton. Some little distance away is the manor house, still owned by Pendletons. In this old family seat are found the records of glowing achievement of different members of the family and that of the ancestor whose bravery in the Crusades won him the right to place upon his shield the Scollop shells, which are a distinctive feature of the arms.

The Pendletons belonged, no doubt, to the English gentry, in many instances a purer and prouder heritage than many of those of titled fame, whose name and title have changed many times as they came down through the ages.

Phillip Pendleton established the southern family of this name in

Pendleton

America, in New Kent county, Virginia. This family has produced a great many prominent sons and daughters. Among those of whom the state of Virginia is just proud was Judge Edmund Pendleton, an important influence during Revolutionary days.

Socialism Vs. Christianity

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

The race is one large family, and its solidarity is now an accepted fact. No individual can live alone. As members of a group we are influenced by its spirit and ideals.

The social and financial status of one person affects the group as the corporate interests of the group affect the individual. This "group consciousness" has also given rise to an international patriotism. The economic and social life of Europe has a very definite effect upon our own country and vice versa.

With the development of "group consciousness," we have become intelligent regarding human needs, social injustice, and the many evils which have long existed. Socialism is one of the organized forces intended to remedy some of these ills. It aims to restore the independence of the employed class and to guarantee a living wage. It argues that the workman should be owner of his machinery and the housewife of her kitchen utensils. In brief, Socialism recognizes the evils of our modern social life and endeavors to eliminate them. Some argue that Socialism is an effort to apply to our social order the teachings of the founder of Christianity. In some respects this is true, but it is not true of all that is commonly exploited as socialistic propaganda.

While certain ideals in Socialism agree with those of Christianity, the methods are radically at variance. Socialism is primarily interested in material values; Christianity is interested in spiritual values. Socialism argues that a man's environment determines his character and efficiency. If we would have a better social order, we must change the environment. Christianity aspires to the same change, but from within, with the result that we change our environment as we grow dissatisfied with it. Christianity declares that the transforming power must come from within. Socialism is decidedly revolutionary in theory; Christianity is evolutionary. Socialism argues for a more equal distribution of wealth; the founder of Christianity regarded wealth as a trust to be distributed for the good of society. Socialism attempts to cure the social ills; Christianity attempts to remove the cause of those ills.

The purpose of this article is not to advocate any special form of economic and social control. The purpose is to emphasize that the following questions must one day be answered by every American citizen. Are we as a nation gradually drifting into Socialism? To what extent can its principles be applied to our modern life? Is Socialism a panacea for our present social ills? If not, what is the alternative?

Famous Perry Brothers Helped Make War History

Oliver Hazard Perry, the elder of the two famous Rhode Island brothers, was born in 1785, became a midshipman in 1799, served in the Tripolitan war, and was made a lieutenant in 1807. It was he who fought the battle of Lake Erie, and though he carried the rank of lieutenant, he was then acting as captain. Congress rewarded him for this achievement by giving him a captain's commission. He was sent to the West Indies with a squadron to put down piracy, but he contracted yellow fever and died at Port of Spain, Trinidad, in 1819. He is often referred to as Commodore Perry, but he never held that rank. Possibly it is due to confusion of the brothers that he is called commodore.

Matthew Calbraith Perry, the brother, was born in 1794, fought in the War of 1812 and the Mexican war, and in 1841 was made a commodore. He conducted from 1852 to 1854 the expedition to Japan which led to the opening of that country's ports to western commerce. In 1858 he died in New York.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

CORINNE relaxed against the blue velvet and chromium with a little wriggle of satisfaction. She pulled off her soft white felt hat which made her look so like a little girl in a new Easter bonnet and snuggled into the corner of the seat. Her week end among the plutocrats was ending as well as it had begun.

And she'd got away with it, too. She hadn't met Aline's neighbor, Mr. Coolidge, who had the job that she might be going to get, but Aline had called him up and made an appointment with him for this morning. Her story about the lost luggage had gone down perfectly. Everybody had laughed about her dresses summering at Newport by mistake, and she was serene in this navy print swagger suit which did nicely for breakfast, lunch, and dinner.

"And I won't have to have it for dinner this evening, thanks to my nice little handbag."

She raised her eyes to the luggage rack to smile at her one adequate piece. And then her eyes went loose in their sockets and rolled like a pair of marbles and her teeth clicked together. The blue suede bag was up there, but either her eyes were refusing to focus or it had multiplied by some zoological method of splitting in two. For there were two of them.

Wildly she scanned the people in the coach. There was a stout white-haired man with a face as smooth and red as a ping pong ball. There was a woman slumbering elegantly, her breath stirring the gardenia pinned at her throat. There was—Corinne scowled blackly—that snooty boy who had sulked about at Aline's for two days. He had been the only really eligible man there.

The conductor had inexorably announced the next stop.

With a wild plunge the train and Corinne reached a decision at the same time. She was already on tiptoe, snatched down the blue bag, running for the door.

As the train stopped she plunged down the steps into the high walled chasm of the ramped station. And then a hand shot down on her arm, a hand with fingers of iron and she was twisted about to face a glare of fury that withered her.

"Just kindly drop that bag," a boy's voice sizzled. "I might have known they'd have spies trailing me. They try to freeze me out on selling the patent and then send a girl to steal the model."

"Here, here," the white-haired man brusquely intervened, "What's all this? Is this man annoying you?"

"You win," Corinne said. "We lose. Take your model."

The old gentleman was examining with interest the peculiar coil of metal that the boy was lovingly taking out of the bag.

"That looks familiar to me," he said. "I'm Hiram Coolidge, the radio man. Isn't that—"

"Indeed it is, Mr. Coolidge," the boy stammered. "The new tone purifier that I've tried for months to see you about. I stayed with friends of yours this week end hoping to meet you."

Mr. Coolidge's bristling eyebrows surveyed Corinne. "Must be something special if there are people trying to steal it," he announced. "Come on up with me till I inspect it. Do you wish to give this young lady—"

"Let her go," the boy insisted.

An hour later he came out of Coolidge's office whistling gayly, his face radiant. A girl rose stiffly from a bench in the outer office.

"Hello!" he said. "Hey! You've got a bag just like mine. Was that why—gee, was it all a mistake? And I got a break like that just by accident! I certainly owe you plenty."

"You certainly do," Corinne said haughtily. "I can't see Mr. Coolidge now about a job because he thinks I'm a guilty siren. I wanted to see if he bought your patent. Somebody ought to get something out of it. Don't ask me why I didn't get my handbag and prove they were alike. Here's why."

Neatly disposed inside were two oranges, four breakfast rolls, several lumps of sugar, and a tidily wrapped leg of chicken.

"It was all mine," she blinked haughtily. "My breakfast tray two mornings. And part of one dinner. We had so much to eat—and this was to do me all week till I got my pay from Mr. Coolidge for the job I can't go ask for."

"But I thought," the boy's eyes were dancing now and he seized her wrists. "I thought you were high hat. I thought you were rich as What's His Name. Your clothes that went to Newport that you talked so big about. All that front you put up. I was sore as blazes that I fell for you so hard the first time I saw you."

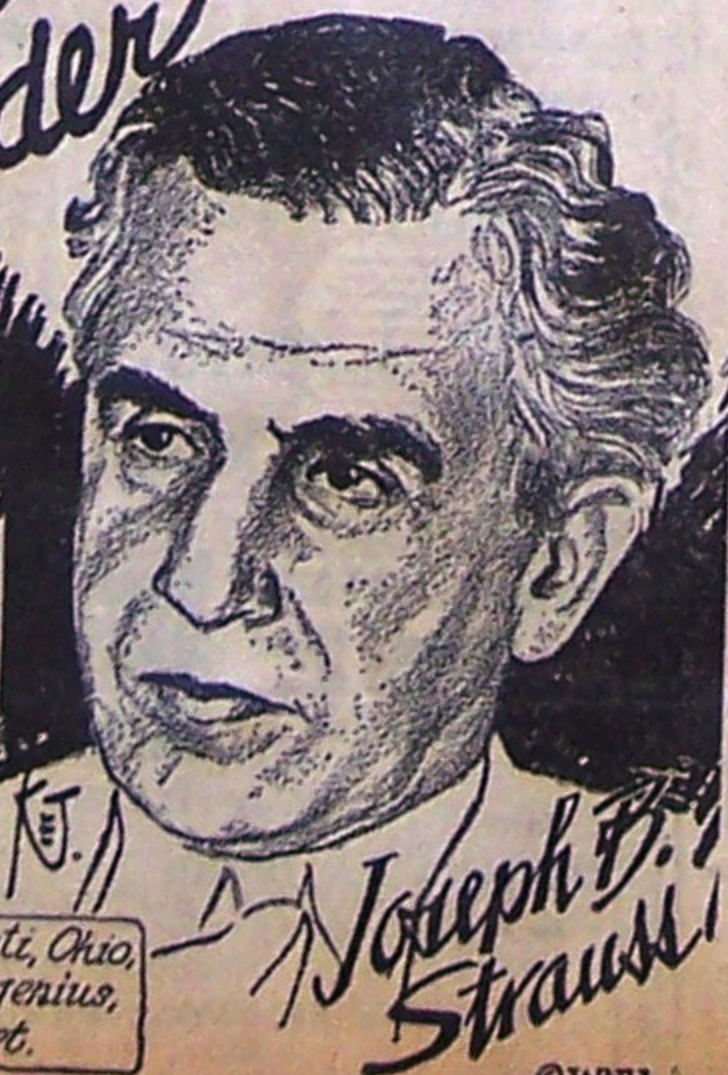

A door opened behind them. A head protruded. "Well, I never heard of such a thing," Mr. Coolidge expostulated. "Followed you right here. But I see you have nabbed her now."

The boy's eyes laughed into Corinne's. "Yes," he said, "I have her. She won't get away again."

'LAST DAYS OF POMPEII' GIGANTIC DRAMATIC SPECTACLE OPENS THREE DAY RUN AT PARTHENON SATURDAY

A GREAT ARENA where human life is sacrificed to provide a Roman holiday has been reproduced for the screen in the RKO Radio spectacle film, "The Last Days of Pompeii," which will be shown at the Parthenon Theatre Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

In this great amphitheatre, guarded by a mighty colossus so big as to make the hosts of fighting men appear like pigmies by comparison, the Pompeians hold their savage carnivals.

The arena served a many-sided purpose in the barbaric days in which the story is laid. It provided entertainment of the most virile sort, a road to riches for those who cared to risk their lives as gladiators, and an engine of destruction for slaves and captives. It was, in fact, the great, brutal heart of Pompeii.

As the events of nineteen centuries ago are brought to the screen the thrilling conflicts of the arena provide many vivid, spine-tingling moments of entertainment. Others include a reproduction of the eruption of Vesuvius, which, together with the earthquake, destroyed Pompeii and wiped it from the earth.

The private lives of rich Romans living in this fabulous playground are depicted and they add spangled pageantry to the lavishness of the production.

"The Last Days of Pompeii" is a Merian C. Cooper production for RKO Radio. Ernest B. Schoedsack directed. The featured cast includes Preston Foster, Alan Hale, Basil Rathbone, John Wood, Louis Calhern, Dorothy Wilson, David Holt and Wyrley Birch.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION EXPLAINS POSTAL CLERK EXAMINATION PROCEDURE

The United States Civil Service Commission has received more than 200,000 applications for the railway postal clerk examination, receipt of applications for which closed on October 28, 1935.

It is necessary to hold this examination in certain cities on succeeding dates, because of the large number of competitors. The commission has received very numerous inquiries from applicants who have heard that some persons in their own cities have been notified to appear for examination, whereas they themselves have not yet received notification cards. The fact that an applicant has not as yet received an admission card has no significance and is due solely to the different examinations dates necessary.

All applicants whose applications have been accepted will in due course be sent admission cards, giving the date and place of examination.

Applicants examined on the first day will, of course, have no preference in appointments over applicants examined on any of the succeeding dates, as the entire register will be made up on the same date. Applicants are urged not to write to the Civil Service Commission concerning the date of the examination, as this tends to retard the work of the office.

It is a very good world to live in, to lend, or to spend, or to give in—Earl of Rochester.

Here's How to Decorate with Christmas Lights

Making the home a shining example of holiday good-will by attractive Christmas lighting decorations has become "just an old American custom". Here are some practical illustrations of what can be done.

The owner of this home used cleverly placed floodlights and silhouette cutouts of Christmas figures, supplemented by beautifully trimmed evergreens at the entrance.

This picture shows how festoons of lights can be used to emphasize the important lines of the house. Indoor decorations in or near the windows add interest.

An ingenious effect is produced by the shadow of a small cutout tree cast by a lamp placed behind it. Colored lamps in the doorway lanterns and colored paper in the upper windows add to the trim, festive appearance.

Candle forms at the entrance can be made of painted tubes of tin or cardboard and a flame-colored lamp. In addition, homes like this with light toned trim are made distinctive with simple floodlighting.

It's a Sweet World as Far as Desserts Go; Variety in Sugar

Although we do not usually consider sugar with the flavorings, if we were for any reason deprived of our customary amount of sugar we would soon realize that its special value is from the flavor angle. Actually starchy foods can replace sugar in food value, but they are so bland that they are not substitutes at all for the sugar flavor.

When we use the word sugar in terms of foodstuffs we usually mean granulated sugar made from the juice of the cane or from beets. Other forms of sweetening from cane sugar are brown sugar and molasses, which have a much more distinctive flavor than granulated sugar, although a little less sweetness. We use them particularly on account of flavor. Sometimes granulated sugar is caramelized to give it more flavor. Caramel is very easily prepared by stirring sugar in a heavy frying pan over a low fire until it melts. If we are using it at once it can be added to the dish it is to flavor in this form. If it is to be kept we will add a little water and stir over the fire until we have a smooth thin sirup.

Maple sirup and sugar have a delicate, delicious flavor. We will hope the winter will not be too open to give a good season, which starts at the first thaw after a cold winter. There is an increasingly large production of maple sirup and sugar for flavoring purposes. It is, however, a mere nothing compared to the enormous sugar production as a whole.

Another form of sweetening as flavoring which is used to some extent is a modern development. This is corn sirup made from cornstarch. It is not quite as sweet as sugar. It comes in several flavors. It is used as sirup for griddle cakes and waffles, with sugar for candies and to some extent, desserts. It is a real asset in candy making, as it makes a mixture of a creamy texture which is difficult to achieve when using sugar alone. If too much is used the candy will not harden.

Honey is another form of sugar. This is probably the first sweetening known to man. The honey industry has been greatly developed in the last four years. Strained honey is packed in jars and is sold as a "spread" and for sweetening and flavoring other foods by itself or combined with sugar. "Wild honey," which we see mentioned among the foods of primitive man, is quite different from the honey of today, with its different characteristic flavor, which depends upon the flower from which the bees draw it.

Maple Sugar Shortcake.

2 cups flour
3 tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
4 tbsp. sugar
5 tbsp. fat
¼ to 1 cup milk

Mix and sift the dry ingredients and rub in the fat. Make a hole in the flour at the side of the bowl and add a half cup of liquid. Stir in enough flour to make a ball of soft dough. Remove this from the bowl and add to the remaining flour enough liquid to make a soft dough. Divide the dough in half and roll each half the same size and shape. Place one layer on a greased pan, butter slightly, and place the other layer on top of the first. Bake 15 to 20 minutes in a hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit). Split and cover with shaved maple sugar and chopped nuts. Place the other layer on top and cover with sweetened whipped cream. Garnish with shaved maple sugar and whole nuts.

Orange Cream Custard.

2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
½ cup sugar
2 tbsp. flour
¼ tsp. salt
1 cup orange juice
1 cup cream or evaporated milk
1 tsp. grated orange rind
½ cup orange slices
2 egg whites
4 tbsp. sugar

Mix together the egg yolks, sugar, flour, salt, orange juice and cream and cook in a double boiler unit until thickened. Remove from fire, add orange rind and cool. Arrange orange slices in serving dish and turn the chilled custard mixture over them. Chill and cover with a meringue made of the beaten egg whites and sugar. Garnish with additional orange slices.

Baked Apples.

Wash and core sour apples. With a sharp knife cut a line through the skin around the middle of each apple to prevent the skin bursting as the apples cook. Allow a quarter of a cup of sugar mixed with a quarter of a teaspoon of cinnamon to five apples. Fill the cavities with this mixture, place in a baking dish and cover the bottom of the dish with hot water. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit), basting occasionally with sirup. Corn sirup used instead of sugar produces a glazed appearance.

Old-Fashioned Walnut and Date Cake

¾ pound dates
1 cup boiling water
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup sugar
1 egg well beaten
½ pound shelled walnuts, chopped
½ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon soda

Stone and cut up dates, add water, stir once or twice and allow to cool. Cream butter and sugar together; add the egg, dates and nuts and then the flour mixed and sifted with soda. Beat well and pour into greased shallow pans or patty pans. Bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees F.) about twenty-five minutes. Serve with sweetened whipped cream if used as dessert.

Honey Nut Bran Muffins.

2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups bran
¾ cup chopped walnuts
½ cup honey
1 tablespoon melted butter
1½ cups milk

Sift flour, baking powder, soda, and salt together, add bran and walnuts. Mix honey, melted butter, and milk. Add to dry ingredients. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) twenty-five minutes.

Treat Furs Roughly

If you are lucky enough to get a silver fox wrap, for goodness sake learn to care for it correctly. The fur never should be stroked with the hands or touched with a brush. Instead, when you want to fluff it up and remove dust, shake it vigorously. Don't treat furs gently. On fox ranches where the little creatures are bred and reared to enhance feminine beauty and in large fur houses, fox pelts are beaten with a stick to make them fluffier and more luxurious looking.

Inexpensive, Easy Patchwork Quilts

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

Patchwork quilts as a rule are elaborate, cost quite a bit and represent many days of tedious work. This work and cost can be cut down to a minimum as shown in the illustration. Any of these designs can be used on eighteen nine-inch blocks and so arranged to make a full size quilt. About three ounces or one yard of prints is all that is required for the patchwork. Folder No. 536 in colors illustrates four ways to assemble these different designs, also cut out diagrams for six different patches like the above. Information about yardage required for back, border and blocks is also given.

The folder No. 536 and folder No. 0 with other quilting information will be mailed upon receipt of 10 cents, or send us 19 cents and we will send folder and sufficient beautiful patches to make up the patchwork on one of these simple quilts.

Designers Are Employing Purple in Smart Effects

Sellers of purple—or more specifically sellers of fabrics in purplish tones—find up-to-the-minute styles very much to their liking. Rochas trims black with a purplish red, extremely bright and inspired by the ancient Pompeian purple. Maggy Rouff uses a unique purplish tone, ranging from a dark shade to a red violet tone. Mainbocher adopts a fuchsia shade and Jodelle, a deep Parma violet. As would be expected, the influence of purple is particularly noticeable in blue.

DOCTORS KNOW

Mothers read this:

THREE STEPS TO RELIEVING CONSTIPATION

Why do people come home from a hospital with bowels working like a well-regulated watch?

The answer is simple, and it's the answer to all your bowel worries if you will only realize it: many doctors and hospitals use liquid laxatives.

If you knew what a doctor knows, you would use only the liquid form. A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the secret of any real relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular liquid laxatives have become. They give the right kind of help, and right amount of help. The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara—both natural laxatives that can form no habit, even in children. So, try Syrup Pepsin. You just take regulated doses till Nature restores regularity.

A Frock With Slender Lines for Matron Who Wears Size Forty-Six

PATTERN 2487

Here's a real "find" for the woman who's a size forty-six, and has been seeking a dressy frock that will ably conceal extra pounds, yet allow her to look as young as she feels. Then, too, there's also a wealth of slenderness to be gained by center panels, front and back, which hold a wide box pleat in seam. Deserving of the title "bosom friend" is that dressy, graceful twin jabot that so successfully conceals too ample curves. The matron will do well to choose a smooth, sleek silk, satin, or crepe for her "very best" frock, let the jabot contrast, and bright buttons do a little "highlighting."

Pattern 2487 is available in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 takes 3½ yards 39 inch fabric and ¾ yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address orders to the Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., 243 West Seventeenth St., New York City.

Cheers for Calumet's New 10¢ Can—and perfect, never-fail baking!

"I never have baking troubles with Calumet—and I save, too!" says Mrs. Jack Caskey, 880 Avalon St., Memphis, Tenn.

"Your new 10c can makes me feel very thrifty!" says Mrs. Nancy E. Williams, 499 Moreland Ave., Atlanta, Ga.

"It's real quality at a saving!" says Mrs. K. J. Tobin, of Beverly Hills, Ill. "I've never had a baking failure with Calumet."

Why does Calumet give such "luck"? Why is it different from other baking powders?

Calumet combines two distinct leavening actions. A quick one for the mixing bowl—a slower one for the oven. This Double-Action is so perfectly balanced and controlled that it produces perfect leavening. Calumet is a product of General Foods.

A SIMPLE TWIST... and the Easy-Opening Top lifts off. No delay, no spilling, no broken finger-nails!

All Calumet prices are lower! Calumet is now selling at the lowest prices in its history... The regular price of the Full-Pound Can is now only 25c! And ask to see the new, big 10c can—a lot of good baking for a dime—with Calumet, the Double-Acting Baking Powder.
